If you do not consent to share your complaint information, please explain why below. We will consider whether we can properly address your complaint without sharing this information.

Details of your complaint

Please provide a detailed description of your complaint. Your description should include the what, when, who, how, where and why of what happened. If you need more space, please attach as many pages as necessary at the end of this form.

Have you communicated with the service provider about your complaint? If so, please explain.

Resolution of your complaint

Do you have a suggestion about how your complaint could be resolved?

In certain circumstances, the IPC will make an order to resolve a complaint. However, it is important to note that most complaints before the IPC are resolved informally and do not result in an order. The IPC can order a service provider to grant access to requested records, order a service provider to respond to an access request, etc.

The IPC cannot order disciplinary measures against employees of the service provider you are complaining about (such as requiring the service provider to fire an employee) or order it to pay you financial compensation (money).
